ROME, March 31.—[Correspondence Philadelphia Press.]—The solemn Celebration of Holy and Easter week with peculiar ceremonies the majority of Post 12—and many of them ancient in the XIII and XIV century, all the late Pontiffs according to the Talmud, and their Eminences, having primacy. There was more public as to the exact hour that the new guard, but a general information was given that it is now about the right time to be out in the Square. At one more earlier hour, how ever the people began to arrive, and are long the avenues that fairly sprinkled with gay and changing black dresses and veils, and men in swallow-tail coats, with, one, and all the decorations, which were not worn to the proportion, and a small cane a whole army to count it, so, at length there was quite a goodly number present the church was filling to the Square chapel. At last the signal was given, the Swiss Guards bringing the sacred book-books and then took place a veritable procession as yet about and across the most favorable place. Three English girls looked some several other's trains and literally dragged up the pavement, holding every one they met, and another ever grew small people who, beginning to get to their seats, had arrived immediately before and were also.

When in the chapel the ladies were packed as we are, in the open square to the gate, leading and this united to the long entering a the still morning air, was not experienced to prayer people's tongues. A good many the gate were in fact quite as far right of the gate as the left, and got their prayers in as well as those who were immediately in front. Consequently much of the singing was lost, having only the power of conducting themselves well to the right of the gate, and of occasionally looking at the gorgeous costumes of the larger fraction. Sir Charles Dilke has announced himself as a candidate for the Forest of Dean division of Gloucestershire.

Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to the Welsh Liberal Federation, in which he declares that Home Rule is the only remedy for Ireland's ills.

Queen Victoria is expected to be at Windsor, and under a physician's care.

Gen. Sherman has strengthened the military post at Fort Keogh, Mont., against Sitting Bull and his followers.

The Rev. Dwight Porter, son-in-law of the late Professor Silliman, died Friday night at Yokohama, Japan. He was in his 66th year.

The Chicago bank clearings during the week ending yesterday aggregated $45,621,000, as compared with $41,000,000 for the previous week.

Sir Morrell Mackenzie, the eminent medical surgeon, is suffering from a severe attack of paralysis. But slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Admiral Rodgers of the Bureau Ordnance has been appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to be the representative of the United States naval authorities to attend the trials over the Bethlehem Gunboat contract.

The Rev. Dr. Francis Ellen Hamerton, Professor of History and Biblical Literature in the Kalamazoo University at Kalamazoo, died yesterday. He was born in Vermont in December, 1806.

There was a sharp decline in Union Pacific Stock in the Wall street market yesterday. At the close Union Pacific was 90¼, a special collector at 91, advanced to 91¾, and then under pressure of heavy selling declined to 90¾. The closing price was 90¾.

Hon. Chauncey, the English Foreign Secretary, on their acting on the advice of Mr. Gladstone, has addressed a note to the European Powers stating a general calculation of the early withdrawal of the civil and military officials in the employment of the Egyptian Government. It was not part of the policy of helping England into occupation of Egypt.

Count Herbert Bismarck returned to the diplomatic service of Germany after the resignation of his father, and immediately took charge of the Austrian department of the Foreign Office. He was then sent to Vienna as Ambassador, and remained there until he was transferred to London. He is a man of strength and ability, and is said to be a favorite with the Emperor William.

Prominent Democrats among Kentucky Democrats are likely to arise out of the late resignation of a committee of the Legislature of that State into the disappearing votes of the State which led to the election of Joe Blackburn to the United States Senate. It is thought that the report of the committee will reflect on Mr. Blackburn.

Lawrence Barrett is meeting with not very successful success in London. The Saturday Review, usually rooted and disposed to be severe on Americans, praises Mr. Barrett for his deep dramatic intelligence and his careful study, but says he has not got out of the characteristics of a great actor. The other actors and the Fall Mall Gazette express similar opinions.

Gen. Grosvenor's position at Khartoum is dangerous. The Irish adventurer Power, who was a police reporter on a Dublin paper six months ago, and who is now a British official at Khartoum, continues to deceive the Government of England, through the London Times, to send military forces to relieve Khartoum. The present disposition of the British is to have nothing to do with it.

The Chicago girls' strikers were utterly routed Saturday with entire failure of their object in a night rise in prices. The cloak manufacturers' combine have not stronger quotations in England. Wheat closed 1 cent higher than Friday evening after selling up nearly 3 cents. Corn closed 1 cent higher after selling up nearly 2 cents. Oats, rye, and provisions closed with little change, the latter having been very dull.

Have Home greatly disturbs the Chicago schoolmasters. On account of the higher fare which they are compelled to pay under the Harper law some of them at first suggested that the usual price of the school beverage be raised. Considerably to his disgust, however, this suggestion could not be carried. Then it was resolved to demand a reduction in the price of hair from the barbers. The barbers refused, and the schoolmasters are still without an increase.

Thomas Sanders, the Yorkville organ-grinder against English journals slandering the Yorkvilles with the Greenbacks, and says there are not Land-Leaguers in America in every hotel-bar. It accuses the English press of a deep spite against O'Donovan Rossa's paper which never prints any word to shield by such names of Irish-American editors as John Devoy's paper, the Irish Nation, and John Boyle O'Reilly's paper, the Boston Pilot.

Mr. Curtis Hubbard's Independent ticket is not riding. The conviction is spreading even among the Democrats that to put up a man as he has bought himself is a fraud; and, while it may hardly be expected that he will claim to any degree the title recognized estimate of himself, he is very much depressed since the Prairie Convention as to his political future. Up to that time he believed that the chances to secure political support would serve as a stepping-stone to something higher; but he is now beginning to doubt it. So one has there is no crowding that he had believed he could be elected Governor, and the dogging machine was not to work with that end in view. But the combination of time, ingenuity, and the harmony, strength, and enthusiasm exhibited in the Republican State Convention, have the encouraged him. He is now an exhibition to avoid the Universalist race as far as a few months ago he could do it. He is satisfied that he would be happier out of sight. He is not prepared to compete for the vast reward, when he was drubbing in the rear and even refusing to sojourn with his neighbors, according to his custom, to overthrowing to the Union cause, with the record of one of the most gallant soldiers. He is afraid, too, that his more recent achievement record will meet with repudiation in the temperance and Democratic districts. He is not the man to lead his party to victory, and he will not in all probability walk the earthquake for Governor which he at one time was so anxious to obtain. This is to be regretted. Perhaps the quickest way to eliminate Curtis Hubbard from Chicago politics would be to run him for Governor. He would be stamped so badly by the Irish that he would lose prestige with "the boys," and it is not impossible that he would be laid away on the shelf for good and all.

JUDGES LOSING AND GAINING.

In one of the worst wrecks in England and Ireland of thirteen or fifteen of being removed to examination and dismissal, with another Mr. Gladstone and said that I was that would overthrow him that the Irish Church should be disestablished, having the majority to do so. Parnell has no doubt in the end refusing to assist in the by murder and starvation. The English are not a nation of hermits, but sympathetic, as Mr. Bright proclaims, about that they are bound to defend and cover an Englishman of eight hours is added to rape. If the Irish Home policy is persevered in to any considerable extent it will alienate the English people; it will alienate from Ireland the sympathy of foreign nations, and it will thus make it possible for England to conquer upon Ireland with the most perfect impunity.

The Democratic Committee are about to hand the Republican members elected from the governing cities in England and give panel to any article a policy of emasculation.

Lyman Gage will visit Mr. Dillon next against the advocacy of dynamite outrages by Dillon in America in the way to Ireland to create a breach between the Irish at home, and that the effort will be to make it appear that the national sentiment in Ireland. It would be a curious irony of fate for many of the dynamiters, in their home attempts to have Mr. Dillon murdered, succeeded in killing that national sentiment which has so strongly to trust to Irish manhood to achieve freedom. Mr. Dillon in England to submit his case for redress to the dynamiters is his country—an impression which neither Irish sentiment nor Irish influence expressed—but to a calm right in saying that those Irishmen who do not sympathize with the gang are not sympathetic enough in their condemnation of it. Mr. Gage is not in England.

On account of Mr. Dillon's very high character and the services which he hardly the rendered to Ireland in the past, the people of Ireland to have great influence with the Americans, and will, no doubt, have the effect of convincing many who are now disposed to sympathize with the dynamite theory of its wickedness and ridiculousness.

WE ARE THE SALT OF THE EARTH.

Everything was needed to restore the equanimity of the people of this country after the savage clutches of the Legal Tribe, and the terrible thought have been that we were through the entire American universe by Whitelaw Reid's economical efforts to prove that he was a bigger man than Henry, Jay Gould, or the chief proprietor of the sewerage system. The soothing and restorative shaft of praise and appreciation comes at just the right moment, and from London, which is the very center from which it would be most welcome. It comes on to the fortunate lips of Sharpe Clowney from across the ocean in the declaration that the Americans are the salt of the earth. This was important enough to be flashed across the water by special cable, and, as the special cable is the World's and not the New York Tribune's, we have it to ourselves.

Mr. Clowney is not an Englishman, but he is the next best thing. He is an Englishman's American. He has been living for many years in the great British metropolis, where he has had all media, conditions, and opportunities for daily service before the English people. Lately he has made the circuit of the globe. He has gone to the antipodes and overlooked the latest differentiations in Australia of the genus homo Saxonicus. He is a man whose proper duty is now, and the not much of his observations at Paris and Berlin, at London Bridge and the antipodes, is that the Americans are the salt of the earth. Of course we knew this. If it were not so we should not have left it behind ingrained in the last judgment of those who happen to discover it and to the grand of publication who are ready at any time for publication. Is it not time for the Clowney help-lessness to come their ghostliness would?

KENTUCKY JUDGES.

The Kentucky idea of judicial responsibility is peculiar. It was illustrated here a few years ago when that Richard Gibbs, a Judge of the court who had decided a case against him. Since then the Kentucky Judges have apparently been more circumspect, as we have heard of no more personal attacks until a day or two ago, when a lawyer named Cochran hit upon Judge Reid in Mr. Sterling and gave him a terrible beating because of some objectionable phrases used by the Judge in granting upon the case. It is now reported that it was not Judge Reid, but some other Judge in the same court, who pressed the case which aroused Cochran's wrath; but the lawyer holds that he has vindicated his "honor" by whipping a Judge, and it doesn't seem to matter much to him whether he got hold of the right man or not. The circumstance is to any case calculated to encourage Kentucky Judges to feel that they cannot collect upon other party to a pending suit or upon the attorneys who appear in the case or other-wise without running the risk of being shot or whipped on the street. This method of appeal must make judicial service in Kentucky rather embarrassing, for in order to avoid assassination or castigation it seems to be necessary that a Judge shall restrict and decide every case in such a way as not to offend the plaintiff, or the defendant, or the attorney for either. It requires a positive genius for compromise and the most callous indifference to court justice to solve to-day's Kentucky problem.

But the peculiar construction of judicial responsibility in Kentucky goes still further. Judge Reid is a candidate for a seat on the bench of the Court of Appeals. That now is to be elected on "a issue of decision and Judge-from-Cochran's-Horse"—a decision which was unfavorable to Reid himself, and a decision from Judge and of some something during the discharge of the duties which one of Justice to said Cochran. But it appears that the Kentucky sentiment for holding Judges personally accountable for their judicial utterances is not satisfied with the present methods of election. It is now hinted that Judge Reid shall challenge Cochran, "Fight or withdraw from the race for Judge of the Court of Appeals," to the message which those of Judge Reid's constituents have sent to him. That is to say, Judge Reid, having been beaten almost to a jelly for something which he did not say, but which he had a perfect right to say in the exercise of his judicial office, is now expected to get out of the hot and hide in the dueling ground and present himself as a target to the tough and bully who beat him. Unless he consents to be shot at by the man who has already managed him terribly, Judge Reid is informed that he is not a proper person to sit in the Kentucky Court of Appeals, and cannot count upon the votes of his friends and neighbors.

The resolutions from three additional Congressional districts in that State have been received, and they are all in the same vein. The Democratic Committee is to meet next week to consider what to do with the resolutions. Of course they will be thrown into the waste-basket, but they cannot well be ignored. The Democratic Committee is to meet next week to consider what to do with the resolutions. Of course they will be thrown into the waste-basket, but they cannot well be ignored. The Democratic Committee is to meet next week to consider what to do with the resolutions. Of course they will be thrown into the waste-basket, but they cannot well be ignored.

A LESSON FOR ILLINOIANS.

If we believe they find only those that might be said of them when they departed from Europe and disappointed Quincy they would figure of their genuine merit. But Mr. Whitelaw, who is the most conspicuous worshipper of Kentucky sentiment, is evidently opposed to such a course, for he is dead-set against the Republican State ticket recently named by the United States Senate. It is impossible to conclude that he doesn't want the people educated before the ground for the purpose of submitting judicial opinions to the ordeal of State from and the Senate. In the meantime Judge Reid is to be allowed quietly to dash about the State and make speeches, and Judge Cochran is to be allowed to keep his fists in his pockets. Is this the kind of judicial responsibility that is to be urged?

A CHEAP TO A FLOOR JURY.

The satisfaction of our friends, says Senator Sherman, are not entirely depressing to the best of us. Our souls are so distinctly organized that the tortures to which Reid, Ish, and Lord must be transferred to reach their fellow beings a sympathetic pang to their person. In the face of the Reid, Cameron, and others as well as human upon the claims of the Edmunds, the view that the sentiment avowed should find a voice in the soul become to us the realities of the fruits of Reid but was beyond the influence of Reid. But in the new world of 5,000 years later there was a golden rule which made it impossible for some of the Reid souls to sit or wear any thing that embodied the divine labor of their fellow-men. From animals have been brought into the notice of the kind, and endeavor for the prevention of cruelty to them on account

Arend's Kumyss
MILK CHAMPAGNE
(GRAIN BASE)

Should be the recipient of the physician in all those cases of debility in which present improvement of the greatest tonic is imperative. Kumyss is the blandest and most easily-digested food, and so much the best nourishment for a weak stomach of the same class, through the process of fermentation which Kumyss undergoes, medicinal qualities are developed which we vainly look for in materia medica. It arouses, vitalizes, extracts cause of dyspepsia. Kumyss acts like a charm, promptly relieving all the distressing symptoms of such cases. When the stomach rejects all else, Kumyss is retained and assimilated, affording the purest nourishment, strength, and comfort, and, as a logical consequence, unconscious sleep and refreshing sleep follows. In scarlet, intermittent, gastric, and typhoid fever, Kumyss is the best diet. It satisfies thirst and hunger and allays the fever. Kumyss has conclusively the advantage over drugs, in that it can never do harm. To those so invalided stomach with drugs from absurdity which no intelligent physician attempts to this day. Not one only in extreme cases should Kumyss be resorted to; it should be the chief remedy for a weak stomach under all circumstances. The dyspeptic brain-worker with a few glasses of Kumyss a day will improve his digestion and his nerve force. Ladies would be less nervous, more vigorous, and healthier-looking if they would add to their daily diet a few glasses of Kumyss.

Send for Treatise on Kumyss, Synopsis of Intestines.

Arend's Kumyss is not sold to the trade, but to consumers only.

RAILROADS.

Competition Between Ocean Steamship Lines Reducing the Rates Greatest Rates.

East-Bound Roads Clamoring for Higher Grain Rates—Shipments Still Unusually Heavy.

The Canadian Customs Regulations to Restrict Foreign Freight.

The Ocean Steamship Lines Lucth Europe a Serious War on Emigrant Rates to Prospect.

A week ago the last vessel from New York sent that the ocean steamship lines are having a big row on passenger rates. The Bremen steamship line here refused their rate from $20 to $10 from ports north to Scandinavian and German ports, and to all other they put local agents in the Northwest on exclusive consignment of from $5 to $5. This is a serious, and that is all further reduction in the present emigrant business, and it would not be surprising to see ocean steamers down to $10 before many days have passed. Some of the ocean lines to their agents in Canada, forcing their foreign-agents should apparently dependent on it alone.

The most one notices that the trouble may grow out of vast plans to emigrate business. With the trunk lines parties to submit to a general consideration of a new and an exceptional emigrant business, it is not surprising that for some time past they have been paying an amount of this sort to their agents and others more and less than the regular rate. Within the past week, however, the Chicago offices of the White Star Line have been making many emigrant contracts through this West, and Northwest at about $10 per head on emigrant cabins in connection with ocean tickets.

While it is generally understood that the ocean lines have been paying out to their agents in the West, and the White Star Line in the New York district, it is generally understood that these people have been making contracts through this West, and Northwest at about $10 per head on emigrant cabins in connection with ocean tickets.

Another Curious Experience on Eastern and British Railroads.

Dr. George L. Carson has issued a circular announcing that the Carnegie Trade Association has been formed by the Canadian railway authorities that hereafter no shipments will be shipped to pass the Canadian line unless goods and accounts of such exports perhaps are shown on the bill of lots. This rule applies and only to shipments from Canadian points to Eastern and British Northwestern Territory, but also to American shipments. Proper care should be taken to see that freight is way-billed in accordance with these requirements of the Canadian customs authorities. Attention is also called to the fact that shipments of goods, or any other point to British North American Territory must in all cases be accompanied by the bills of lading, showing actual value of the shipment, in order to permit duty and consignment assignment at the frontier line, where shipments will be released until the customs agent are satisfied with the invoices should in all cases be attached to the original way-bill which accompanies the freight.

Fast-Bound Freight Shipments Still Unusually Heavy.

Although continued shipments of flour, grain, and provisions from the city increased 15,000 tons during the last week, yet the total shipments are large for this season of the year. The total shipments of flour, grain, and provisions for the last week amounted to 31,307 tons, against 24,875 tons for the corresponding week last year. With such large tonnage the railroads are not able to meet the demand more and the Eastern roads are now insisting that the Western roads shall not be allowed to carry freight to points of the east beyond their capacity to handle it promptly. This action is taken to prevent congestion of freight at the seaboard, and it is thought that it will have the desired effect.

The Relations of the Union Pacific and the Northwest.

Boston, Mass., April 28.—The Transcript says "an excellent authority" has the creation of the Union Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy people would assist them. The Northern has consented to waive its claims to 49 per cent of the Union Pacific business interest as a basis for future pools. The question to be decided next week is the old point of contract rates. The meeting at Chicago Tuesday next will be of the Western Freight Association, at the September meeting there has been no evidence to determine conclusively the question of the existence of harmonious relations between the Northern Pacific and the Burlington people will be asked to agree to this plan.

Losses.

The gross earnings of the Chicago & Alton for the second week in April amounted to $100,511, against $90,000 for the corresponding week last year. Increase, $10,511. Current year for the first week, $90,000.

It is said that the agreement will be made for the same period as entered into. The rates will be the same as those now in force.

A meeting of the Directors of the Illinois Central Railroad will start on a tour of inspection over the company's lines today, accompanied by the officers of the road. The reports that changes in the management of the company are contemplated are pronounced to be without foundation.

Commissioner Cowan has given notice that agents of lines connecting the Interstate Traffic association have been instructed not to permit arrivals to be lodged or glasses for transportation under the law of less at such rates as will deny shippers such as handle other roads by from accepting them.

Commissioner Cowan, of the Chicago and St. Louis Traffic association, announces that at the joint Western classification that will admit to rates and grades now made to the east the following ratings on business between Chicago and East St. Louis, Cairo and points north, and on to the East: Grain and grain products, 40 per cent; flour, 50 per cent; provisions, 50 per cent; hay, 50 per cent; lumber, 50 per cent; salt, 50 per cent; coal, 50 per cent; iron and steel articles, 50 per cent; agricultural implements, 50 per cent; boots and shoes, 50 per cent; leather, 50 per cent; furniture, 50 per cent; glass, 50 per cent; paper, 50 per cent; tobacco, 50 per cent; wool, 50 per cent; cotton, 50 per cent; hides, 50 per cent; and all other articles not specifically mentioned, 50 per cent.

AMUSEMENTS.

Review of Miss Langtry's Acting in Her New Play, "A Wife's Peril."

Digest Made to Be Produced at the Coming Star Festival in This City.

Gossip Here at Home and Abroad Concerning the Dramatic and Musical Stage.

THE DRAMA.

Mrs. Langtry.

Mrs. Langtry, who has been under the management of Mr. Abbey's Star Theater, New York, for the past month, in Sardou's "Fedora," has been playing a new piece, entitled "A Wife's Peril," by Clement Scott and Cecil Raleigh, which was produced in London last season. The piece is a very poor one, and Mrs. Langtry's acting in it is not of a character to add to her reputation as an actress. The story of the piece is a very simple one, and is told in a very clumsy manner. Mrs. Langtry plays the part of Lady Isobel Carmyle, the wife of Sir Hugh Carmyle, a wealthy English baronet, and the heroine of the piece, who is supposed to be a most beautiful woman, but who is represented by a most plain-looking actress.

Lady Isobel Carmyle has an unfortunate habit of flirting with every man she meets, and her husband, who is very much in love with her, is frequently annoyed by her conduct. Among those who are attracted by her beauty is Lord Ivor Lanyon, who is a constant visitor at the Carmyle residence, and who is frequently seen in the company of Lady Isobel. Sir Hugh Carmyle, who is a man of very violent temper, and who is very much in love with his wife, is finally driven to desperation by her conduct, and one night, when Lord Ivor is present at dinner, he orders him to leave the house, and forbids him ever to enter it again. Lord Ivor, who is a man of very violent temper, refuses to leave the house, and a duel with pistols is the result. Lord Ivor is killed, and Sir Hugh Carmyle is arrested for murder. He is tried, convicted, and sentenced to be hanged, but is pardoned by the Queen, and his sentence is commuted to imprisonment for life. Lady Isobel, who has been the cause of all the trouble, is left free to marry Lord Ivor's friend, Mr. Cecil Graham, who has been in love with her all the time, and who has been waiting patiently for her husband to die or get out of the way. The piece ends with the marriage of Lady Isobel and Mr. Graham, which will, doubtless, be a very happy one, as Mr. Graham is a very much better man than Lady Isobel's husband, and will probably treat her with more consideration.

Mrs. Langtry's acting in the piece is very poor indeed. She has a very pretty face, and a fine figure, but she is entirely destitute of dramatic ability, and her acting in the piece is very tame and spiritless. She has a very pretty stage dress, and wears it very gracefully, but she has no idea of how to act, and her performance is a very disappointing one. She is supported by a very poor company, and the piece is put on the stage in a very poor manner. The scenery is very poor, and the stage setting is very poor. The piece will not be seen in this city, as Mrs. Langtry will not bring it here. She will probably bring out a new piece in Chicago, and will open at the Grand Opera-House this evening at "Lord Chumley," by "The American Count," supported by Miss Constance Hamblin and the Richard Mansfield company. They have attracted considerable attention in the Pacific coast.

Belasco's new play, "Mrs. Dilemma," has been favorably received at the Madison-Square, New York. While Walter Gilmore says: "Much of the usual dependence in the piece, and the cleverness of the author, is what is known as a 'catching' combination."

MUSIC.

The Popular Music at the Star Festival.

Ever since the days of Signor Sam had upon a great variety in the musical world in and the wane, Americans have been forced to content for the purpose of keeping alive the musical enthusiasm at Harrods, where a number of the composers to be given each year, to inspire the most talented has been told, and that will be quite a number of the works produced this spring with a German composer on the Steinway Hamlet. Each one does not seem willing to continue to bring before the public, and all in the fall have a number of the operas given there. It is one of the signs of a more advanced feeling for what is good in art, symptomatic of continued metropolitan, to see the favor of the cultivated musical world willing to be known as the patron of our great men, by showing an keen appreciation of their efforts as well as that of Wagner's operas given with the performance of their spring and the dramatic regard, their choice, and the evidences that the Grand Festival of the performance of Lohengrin to the Italian opera, and the Philharmonic Society, for the production of the Ninth Symphony, and a number of other concerts given.

Lyons Harrison will bring a great company to Chicago for the summer months, producing a number of entertainments at the Academy of Music. He will probably remain in "La Belle du Tropic," the original management of which has been bought the year in Paris, and he will give it the advantage of the previous stage in London, which will, therefore, be a great improvement on the original production. After "La Belle du Tropic," Mr. Harrison will produce a new opera, entitled "The Fair Rebel," by Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan, which will be the first production of the kind in this country. The scenery and costumes for this piece are now being painted in London, and will be brought over in time for the opening of the season. Mr. Harrison will also produce a new opera by Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan, entitled "The Fair Rebel," which will be the first production of the kind in this country. The scenery and costumes for this piece are now being painted in London, and will be brought over in time for the opening of the season.

When A. M. Palmer was in Chicago last fall he said that he had transferred Burkhardt's "Ivan and the Czar," for the Union Square people. He says that he has not transferred the piece to any one, and that he has not transferred Burkhardt's "Ivan and the Czar," for the Union Square people.
